

I would like to express my concern over preempting the current Telephone Privacy Act in Indiana. I signed up for the program when it was first offered and have noticed a dramatic reduction in phone solicitations since the program has been initiated. Being a working family, dinner/evening time is very valuable and before the Act, we would consistently receive at least two calls per evening. Caller id only worked on regional calls, cost $8/month, and only was effective when you were answering the phone next to the display. I have been so angered by phone solicitation that I refuse any products if solicited in this manner. Why should the public be subjected to this nuisance if they do not want to be solicited in this manner? Please reconsider reducing the effectiveness of the Act, in this day and age family time is very valuable and any unwarranted interruptions only further reduce this irreplaceable necessity. Thank you for your time.
